CONGRESSIONAL.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—In the house today Mr. Patton presented a resolution directing the investigation by a select committee into the alleged frauds committed in Florida in the late presidential election. The resolution contains the names of Edward Noyes and John Shaw as being in connection with the frauds.

Mr. Patton, as a question of privilege presented the following preamble and resolutions: Whereas, the state of Maryland has by its legislature [illegible] given to [illegible] electoral vote by the state on the sixth day of December, 1876, by reason of fraudulent returns in the electoral vote from the states of Florida and Louisiana, and whereas, an affidavit by S[illegible] B. McLin, chairman of the board of state canvassers of the state of Florida, for the election held [illegible] in November last, for [illegible] and vice president, has been made public, alleging false and fraudulent returns for votes for such election in that state, whereby the choice of the people of that state was annulled and reversed, and that the action of the board of state canvassers making such returns was influenced by the conduct and influence of Hon. Edward F. Noyes, now minister to the government of France, and whereas it is alleged that the conspiracy existed in the state of Louisiana whereby the republican vote in all the precincts of the parish of East Feliciana and in some precincts of West Feliciana at the general election in November, 1876, was purposely withheld from the polls to afford a pretext for the exclusion by the board of that state of the vote cast in those precincts for electors of the president and vice-president, and that Jos. E. Anderson, supervisor of registration of East Feliciana, in that state, in furtherance of that conspiracy, falsely protested that the election in such precincts had not been fair and free; and [illegible] the state returning board thereupon wrongfully [illegible] and fraudulently included the votes of said precinct [illegible] and fraudulent action by said returning board, the choice of the people of that state was annulled and reversed, and that such action of said Weber and Anderson was induced or encouraged by the influence of Hon. John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury of the United States; and whereas, the gravity of these charges, the nature of the evidence upon which they are reported to be based, and the official dignity and position of the persons named in connection with said frauds, make it proper that the same should be inquired into, to the end, that the honor of the nation may be vindicated, and the truth as to such elections be made known; therefore, be it resolved, that a select committee consisting of eleven members of this house, be [illegible] to inquire into the aforesaid allegation as to the conduct of persons in the office aforesaid in respect of the said election and into the alleged false and fraudulent canvass and return of votes by the state, county, parish and precinct officers in the aforesaid states of Louisiana and Florida, and into all facts which in the judgment of said committee are pertinent thereto; and that the said committee for the purpose of executing this resolution shall have power to send for persons and papers to administer oaths and to take testimony, and in their discretion to detail sub committees, and with like full authority of said committee in every particular, and with power to sit in Florida and Louisiana; which sub-committees shall be committees of this house, and the chairman thereof shall be authorized to administer oaths, that said committee and sub-committees may employ stenographers, and be attended each by a deputy sergeant-at-arms, and may sit during the sessions of this house and during the vacation, and that the said committee proceed in this inquiry and have leave to report at any time. By a vote of 128 yeas to 108 nays, the appeal which was laid on the table. The vote was a party one with the exception of Messrs. Mitchell, Butler, of Massachusetts, and Foot, who voted with the democrats and Messrs. Mills and Buckner who voted with the republicans.

SENATE.

At the expiration of the morning hour, the postoffice appropriation bill was taken up.

Senator Conover reported an amendment to the bill, authorizing the postmaster general to advertise for carrying the mails between San Francisco and Hong Kong, touching Yokohoma, and pay therefor not exceeding $30 per mile.

The amendment is similar to that recently reported by the committee, providing for mail steamship service between New York, New Orleans and Brazil. It was referred. The amendment also provides for mail steamship service between San Francisco and Sydney, Australia, touching at the Sandwich Islands and New Zealand at contract not exceeding $30 per mile.

GENERAL NEWS.

Kentucky Races.

LEXINGTON, KY., May 13. The largest attendance ever known on the Kentucky association race course met today to witness the first race between Tenbroeck, Vera Cruz, Aristides, Leonard, and Bill Bass. Every available inch of room was crowded. Tenbroeck was decidedly the favorite, with Vera Cruz second choice. A good start was made with Bill Bass in the lead; this he soon surrendered to Leonard, who maintained that position to the half mile pole, with the other four following well in hand. From the half mile post up to the hill and down the home stretch the horses put in their best efforts. Leonard leading, Tenbroeck close up, passing him and winning by a length under whip and spur. Leonard made a splendid race, being a close second. Vera Cruz third. Time, 2:48½.

ST. LOUIS, May 13. A Globe-Democrat special from Lomoroa, Ill., says the boiler of an engine at Cox's coal mine exploded at five o'clock this evening, instantly killing Jno. FOREIGN.

Hoedel Condemned

LONDON, May 13.—A correspondent telegraphs that the Berlin Free Press, a socialist journal, repudiates, disowns and utterly condemns Hoedel, who attempted to assassinate the Emperor. The paper declares that in consequence of a [illegible] upon the name of the Christian socialist party, published in that paper, Hoedel, a few days ago, appeared at the office to state that he was one of those agents, and sympathized with the Christian socialists and was an anarchist. No political party could be held responsible for his nefarious deeds. The Christian socialists are the result of the labors of a few metropolitan clergymen, anxious to resist the spread of communistic and atheistic doctrines among working classes.

English Parliament.

LONDON, May 13. In the house of commons this afternoon, Sir Stafford Northcote declined to fix the day for the discussion of the resolution of Chamberlain, concerning the government and foreign policy.

In response to an inquiry whether the British troops in Europe do not exceed the number authorized by Parliament, the chancellor said that the Indian force were now included in the act fixing them a member of the British army.

In the house of lords Lord Granville gave notice of the question as to whether employment of Indian troops in Europe without the sanction of parliament is lawful.

Lord Huntington announced that he would shortly move a resolution that no forces be raised or kept by the crown in time of peace, save within India, without the sanction of parliament. Sir Stafford Northcote said he hoped to submit a supplementary estimate in a fortnight, when Lord Huntington's resolution might be discussed.

War Notes.

In spite of the peaceful rumors, the massing of Austrian troops near the Danube and Save continues active.

Count Schouvaloff has arrived at St. Petersburg. The official messenger publishes a proclamation calling for subscriptions for the organization of a volunteer fleet in order to defend the just cause, in case the adversary of Russia should provoke war. The Czarewitch will receive subscriptions in St. Petersburg.

By order of General Todleben, the Servians have occupied Sofia, which the Russians evacuated.

Berlin bankers have, it is said, made Russia a preliminary advance of fifty million roubles.

A Vienna correspondent telegraphs that although nothing is known about Count Schouvaloff's mission, a reaction against a hopeful peaceful settlement has set in. If Russia's pacific disposition has actually existed it exists still; but whether it will last is a question for the future to solve. The struggle in St. Petersburg will be a hard one, and the issue doubtful.

It is not known whether the decision of the cabinet in regard to the fortresses has been officially communicated to the Russians, except as regards Shumla; but no action has been taken upon that decision. The Russians say even if the Turks surrender the fortress their troops will only retire from before Constantinople when the British fleet retires.

The arrival of cavalry and infantry reinforcements at San Stefano has revived uneasiness and apprehension of a coup de main.

The surrender of Batoum is exceedingly doubtful. The Russians are closing in its rear and disarming the population hostile to Russia.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Among the telegrams congratulating Emperor William was one from President McMahon, which has made a very favorable impression in Berlin.

Murat Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial, returned from Europe yesterday.

Heavy frosts in New York and Pennsylvania have done considerable damage to the crops.

George Weyman, "California George," was yesterday sentenced to seven years in the New York penitentiary, for fatally stabbing Bill Gould, on New Years's day.

General Thomas H. Dakin, captain of the American rifle teams, died suddenly in New York yesterday morning.

It is believed a compromise will be effected between the cotton mills masters and operatives in England.

The wife of John Bright died yesterday at Rochdale, England.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, May 13. Professor Joseph Henry, of the Smithsonian institute, died yesterday.

The house committee on elections has ordered a majority and minority report in the Carolina contested election case of Richardson, democrat, against Rainey, republican, which, it is believed, will be reached in the house on Wednesday. The majority report favors a new election; the minority report declared the present incumbent entitled to a seat.

WASHINGTON, May 13. A bill was introduced by Representative Schleicher today, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue, in sums not exceeding in the aggregate forty millions, of coupons or registered perpetual bonds, redeemable only by purchase in open market, the interest payable semi-annually in coin of standard value, at the rate of four per cent. per annum, their proceeds to be applied to the sole purpose of erecting public buildings for the use of the government. The bill appropriates for public buildings at Atlanta, Ga., $100,000; Chicago, $150,000; Quincy, $350,000; Evansville, $30,000; Little Rock, $150,000; Memphis, $[illegible],000; Nashville, $250,000; St. Louis, $160,000; state, war and navy department building at Washington, $5,000,000.

A. H. McIntire's Letter.

In this controversy we have been careful not to express any opinion, and shall try to maintain a neutral position, but it is simply just to Mrs. Knox to say that we know of reliable parties who are ready to testify to the truth of the following:

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 13, 1878.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

DEAR SIR: It appears from your issue of Sunday morning that W. H. McIntire has a "burden" too. Being acquainted with the McIntire propensity, this does not surprise me, and may serve to confirm what many believe, that he is just as unscrupulous as his brother, but not so shrewd or capable of living by his wits. If he had told a half truth, admitting that he found the envelopes and brought them to me, as I can prove, and stubbornly professed ignorance of their original contents, I should have been powerless to deny having found and brought the two envelopes, is the exponent of a guilty conscience. The mere supposition that he or his brother still held or had destroyed these papers, has become a moral certainty.

Questions are not evidence, but in order that this first attempt to escape from the ignominious position of a spy and become a writer of fiction may not prove fruitless his question marks shall be looked squarely in the face. That I feel the keenest humiliation in the condescension, none can doubt; but a woman who is unhappily placed for a time to fight a man's battle, must stand upon a man's feet, and have more than a woman's courage.

To hasten the obnoxious business, I will answer the statement, the questions, and the insinuations all in one:

I solemnly affirm that W. H. McIntire did, as I alleged, bring me to my cottage, after the lamps were lighted one evening, early in the week succeeding Mr. Knox's death, two empty envelopes with the declaration that he could find no other private papers. The envelopes had been sealed and one of them was filed "James Knox, Personal Papers." One end of each had been cut, and the papers were gone. I did not find anything in either envelope. He tried, without success, to persuade me that Mr. Knox did not mean that there was a statement already there, but that he would write one if he ever got well. (Fortunately for me I can remember a word or a sentence better than a face.) I can prove that I had not then been in the bank since Mr. Knox's death. I have not yet been in the vault since his death, which I can also prove. Mr. Knox kept his personal letters at the house, but all his other personal papers were kept at the bank. W. H. McIntire, in common with every employe or officer of the bank, knows this. He may now learn for the first time, that despite his watch-dog espionage of Mr. F. W. Adams, and Mr. C. E. Greenough, whenever they approached or entered the bank vault, these gentlemen did find and bring to me many valuable private papers in sealed envelopes, properly filed, with their contents undisturbed. The two envelopes brought me by Mr. McIntire are still in my hands, or at least where I can command them.

This is not the first time that a similar cowardly effort has been made to drive me from some strong hold of evidence.

Who can be safe in a community where a man, without financial or moral responsibility, can publish to the world such a reflection upon a woman's veracity and go unpunished. NELLY LLOYD KNOX.

Presbytery of Colorado.

The Presbytery finished up all its routine business and adjourned at six o'clock on Friday evening, to meet at Fort Collins on the second Friday of October next.

THE SYNOD OF COLORADO

met at the 17th street church on Thursday evening, at half-past seven o'clock, and was opened with a sermon from Rev. W. E. Hamilton, of Laramie. The synod was constituted with prayer by the former moderator, Dr. Jackson.

The roll was called and delegates from each of the four Presbyteries responded, and a quorum being found present, Rev. H. B. Gage, of Colorado Springs, was chosen moderator for the ensuing year; Rev. A. M. Darley was chosen temporary clerk. Dr. Jackson read the minutes of the last meeting, and adjourned meetings, which were approved.

The synod recommended Dr. Jackson as synodical missionary for the ensuing year.

Papers were adopted endorsing the mission work and teaching among the Mexicans, Mormons, and Indians.

Much important work was directed for the ensuing year, in planning for future growth and the occupation of every important center of growth and influence.

A mass meeting on Friday evening was addressed by Revs. A. M. Darley, S. Jackson, H. B. Gage, and R. A. McNice. The latter speaker gave the history of the work in Utah. It was a meeting which will deeply impress all our churches for the year and inspire to greater zeal.

Synod will meet on Saturday at 9 a. m. and finish up some business and adjourn, to meet in Salt Lake City, Utah, on the second Thursday of May, 1879.

DENVER NOTES.

The leaves are out in full on the trees, and the city is in her glory. The city seems to be full of people, and building both in the business and residence portions is going on. One sees no cattle, horses, or mules running at large, as is so common on the streets of Colorado Springs. They have a large dog tax in Denver, and the canine species are not represented to an annoying extent as is so common at home. "Curious?" But the Denver people are not very good church goers.

Business is brisk, and the prices very low. The people are very hospitable.

Yours, &c. H. B. GAGE.

LIVE ISSUES FOR THE COMING CAMPAIGN.

We have understood that the republican congressional committee have decided to make selections from certain southern newspapers and make them up into campaign documents to be distributed through the north so as to affect the fall elections. We have not the slightest doubt but that these documents, if distributed, will exert a powerful influence in the coming elections. They will undoubtedly give the close congressional districts to the democratic party and make sure of a democratic majority in both branches of the national legislature.

The waving of the bloody shirt during the last five years has nearly waved the republican party out of existence. It has changed a republican popular majority of 760,000 in 1872 to a democratic popular majority of 160,000 in 1876. The people believe that the southern question is settled for the present, and that a revival of the issues of ten years ago would be disastrous to the best interests of the country. What the people do care about is economy and purity in the administration of the government. The party that makes the above two things most prominent will win in the coming election.

We notice that most of the party leaders are doing so [illegible] this fall. We believe the record is so impure that they [illegible] and [illegible] purity and reform the banner. But it is futile to deceive the people in this way.

The republican party can put the democratic party on the defensive by making purity and economy the watchword of the campaign. The passage by the democratic house of the harbor and river bill will be an effectual [illegible] to [illegible] of economy. The tremendous abuses shown to have existed in the house patronage, the only patronage controlled by the democratic party will effectually dispose of their plea that democratic ascendency will give purity in the civil service. The democratic party can easily be put on the defensive in this way. On the other hand if President Hayes is endorsed the republican party can point to the great reforms introduced by his present administration. Of its own accord it has reduced the expenses of the treasury department over a million of dollars. In the simple matter of paying pensions a saving of $147,000 has been effected. The members of the cabinet, instead of running the machine, are busily engaged in administering the duties of their office. The present administration is conducted in the interests of the people, and not of the politicians. They will repudiate the republican party, if the politicians of the last regime control the coming campaign, and repudiate the really live issues.

CONVICT LABOR.

The Albany, New York, penitentiary is now not only paying its own way, but is also paying a handsome surplus into the county treasury. The wisdom of having convicts labor would seem to be demonstrated by the above fact. But the national greenback party of Pennsylvania, adopted a resolution on Thursday last saying "that the prison contract system should be prohibited." Instead of earning their own living, these hearty, strong convicts are to be supported by taxes levied on the people. This seems to be the height of inconsistency in a party which is constantly complaining of the burdens of taxation. The objection to convict labor in Pennsylvania is that it lowers the wages of workingmen. We very much doubt this, because the number of laborers in the penitentiary is not large enough to materially effect the demand and supply of labor. Besides, these convicts are paid all they are worth, as there are several parties who are competing for this labor. It seems to us that it would be better to compel the convicts to work if they did not receive more than ten cents a day. They should not necessarily be a burden to the state, even if they are a pest to society.

There are also strong moral grounds on which this might be urged. The fact that they are occupied by some intelligent occupation is a blessing rather than otherwise to them. Besides many of the convicts have no special occupation except to steal or plunder. They are taught a trade in prison, and so have an honest way of earning a living when their time of imprisonment expires. Fortunately, the greenback party of Pennsylvania is not sufficiently strong to carry out its absurd ideas. Is the greenback party of this state opposed to convict labor?

A recent letter to the Boston Herald on the growth of the greenback party in Maine has attracted considerable attention. In 1870 the greenback party gave 603 votes for Peter Cooper; in 1872, 5,266 votes were cast for the greenback candidate for governor, who was a Universalist minister. This spring the party claims to have cast 13,000 votes, and expects to cast 25,000 votes this fall. The rapid growth of the party is a subject of astonishment to the solid men of New England. The founder of the party is Solon Chase, a miller, who is a plain, honest man and is thoroughly imbued with the Ewing, Voorhees financial heresies. He circulated his views mainly through the columns of a newspaper called Chase's Chronicle. His paper was the only greenback paper in the state up to this winter, but there are now eight papers devoted to the dissemination of these pernicious doctrines. Though there is no danger of the party carrying the state, yet it is probable that they will hold the balance of power, and give a good deal of trouble to the republican party. There is also some danger of their defeating the re-election of Eugene Hale. The greenback party of this state should be looked after. If there is a thorough discussion, there is no doubt as to which party will win.

What they say about us.

The press of the state have almost universally greeted the DAILY GAZETTE with kind expressions of approval and generous wishes. We desire to express our thanks to it for the unusual courtesy it has extended to us.

We trust our readers will pardon the self complacency with which we place before them the following extracts from the many notices we have received:

The new daily at Colorado Springs, the GAZETTE, reaches us and and it is with genuine pleasure that we welcome it to our sanctum. Seven years ago this month, we were tenting on the banks of the Fontaine, in the preliminary work of laying the foundation of a town. But our wildest ideas of its future prosperity did not include the issue of such a neat and enterprising little journal as this, inside of a decade of years. We wish it the fullest measure of success. Fremont Valley Home and Farmer.

The Colorado Springs GAZETTE is out with a daily issue, the first number of it reaching us last Friday. Its typographical appearance is neat, with telegraphic news in full, and local news in abundance. We congratulate both publishers and editors on its appearance, and wish it long life and prosperity. Georgetown Courier.

We have received the first number of the Colorado Springs DAILY GAZETTE. It is a neat six column paper and has a style in its general make up and appearance that wins the affections from the start. It is a worthy candidate for public support. Lake County Reveille.

The first number of the daily issue of the Colorado Springs GAZETTE is on our table. It is a handsomely printed six column paper and is well filled with advertisements. The boys start out with good promises, which if they live up to they will make one of the best papers in Colorado. They have our best wishes for success, and may they live a thousand years. San Juan Prospector.

The DAILY GAZETTE, of Colorado Springs, made its appearance on the 1st. Like the weekly, it is a model of typographical neatness. It is heartily sustained by the people of Colorado Springs, and they have reason to be proud of it. We hope the publishers will continue to favor us with the daily. Las Animas Leader.

We have received several numbers of the Colorado Springs DAILY GAZETTE, which, in its typographical appearance, and editorial ability, will compare favorably with the best dailies in the state. Rosita Index.

We welcome to our exchange table a very handsome daily paper the GAZETTE hailing from Colorado Springs. It is a 6-column 4-page paper, printed from new type, and is edited with the same ability that has made the weekly GAZETTE one of our leading papers. Thanks for the courtesy of a daily exchange, gentlemen. Colorado Miner.

The Tribune last evening received the first number of the DAILY GAZETTE, published at Colorado Springs. It is a neat paper typographically, as the WEEKLY GAZETTE has always been, and contains a fair share of news, written in an attractive shape. The policy of the paper will be in the future what it has been the past, Republican in politics and orthodox in morals. We wish it success. Denver Tribune.

We are in receipt daily of the DAILY GAZETTE, of Colorado Springs. The GAZETTE is one of the neatest dailies in the state. It is typographically one of the handsomest papers in the west, and contains all the associate press dispatches, and a good selection of local and state news. The people of the Springs can well afford to be proud of it, and no doubt they are. Fremont County Record.

The Colorado Springs DAILY GAZETTE made its first appearance on the first of the month. It is not only a very handsome six column paper, but contains more reading than any other Colorado daily outside of Denver. Enterprise and Chronicle.

The first number of the Colorado Springs DAILY GAZETTE has put in an appearance. It is well printed, neatly made up, and has a good supply of excellent matter. Colorado Springs has reason to be congratulated on so good looking a paper. Denver Mirror.

The first number of the daily Colorado Springs GAZETTE has come to this office. It is a handsomely printed six-column sheet, and gives every evidence of being well and carefully edited. With the exception of the Call, it is the handsomest daily in the state. The Evening Call.

The first number of the DAILY GAZETTE, of Colorado Springs, has been received at this office and presents a handsome typographical appearance. The matter is well selected and artistically arranged, and the paper starts out on its new career with every indication of prosperity. Denver News.

"DESUN DO MOVE SUAH."

THE REV. JOHN JASPER BREAKS UP THE ASTRONOMERS OF THIS THEORY

(From the Washington Post.)

Punctually at eight o'clock last night, in the Rev. John Jasper (very black), ascended the stage of Lincoln Hall and was introduced to a rather slim audience by Mr. J. W. Johnson (brown black). This celebrated Baptist clergyman—who has grown in notoriety with the rapid growth of Jonah's gourd, is about five feet ten inches high, sinewy and well made, with a round bullet head set firmly on strong, square shoulders. His voice is a strong, musical tenor of much power, but in its ordinary tones thick and muffled. There is a great deal of magnetism about the man; he is thoroughly in earnest, and at a colored camp meeting would gather in the converts at a rate to gladden the souls of Wesley or Whitefield. His style is eminently adapted to the wants of his congregation, and only looks cultivation to be singularly powerful and effective. He is essentially dramatic, and his descriptive powers are pictorial and graphic to a high degree. He is an unconscious humorist. Without he has a logicum of no mean rank, and reasons from his premises to his conclusions with a force and a directness that only need cultivation and information to be of convincing weight and influence. Opening his meetings with an old fashioned hymn in which most of the audience joined, he read the 114th Psalm and called on Mr. Johnson to pray. Then he arose and said he would prove that the sun do stand still, prove it from the leds of the Bible. He didn't know nothin 'bout outsiders, and dealt only with God's word, which war writ by holy men inspired by the Spirit of God, moved upon by the Holy Ghost and authorized by God's authority to light a lamp for the feet and prepare a guide for the path. He was not a grammarian, and had never been to school in his life, except seven months thumbing of a New York spelling book, but had been directed to studying the Bible, and had asked God for Christ's sake to lighten him. He then described his conversion, his entrance into the ministry and the manner in which he was brought into this argument. He had preached it by request four times, on each occasion his white hearers increasing in number. Then warming with his subject and rising equal to the emergency he plunged into the famous sermon which has carried the name of Jasper all over the country.

Ladies and gentlemen, said he, "before proving, as I have been formerly do, that the sun do move, I shall go into Egypt extensively, and after devouring my subject, will then travel into Canaan and show by the Lord's own mouth that the sun get up in the morning in the east whar you kin see him if you want to, and goes over houses and trees and territories and cotton houses till he goes down in the west, whar he hasteneth back again to the starting place. Now that the Lord is a man of war, just take notice of Exodus 15 chapter and 3d verse, and scuse me for meandering around in Egypt for I shall not undertake to prove that the sun do move until I git over into Canaan. From the creation until the flood, when the Lord drowned everybody but Noah and his family, was 1,656 years. Then 400 years after, when the world had got demunuphed with people pretty thick like, the Lord took Abraham out of the land of Haran, way from his kindred and relations, who was idolaters, and after giving him a son he made up his mind to try Abraham's faith. It was a sore of pleasure for Abraham to cuse me for calling him Abraham, his name was Abram, but it comes kinder pat, but I don't mind it, to look at young Isaac, but the Lord said, says he, 'Abram, take de boy up to Moriah mounting, and strap to a pile of logs for a burnt sacrifice.' Now if Abram had been a philosopher, and had the unbroken confidence he did have, said, 'Lord, if I stick my knife in young Isaac's troat, whar ye gwine to git another boy of mine through whom to bless the human race?' But Abram wasn't a philosopher; he heard the Lord, he saddled his ass, he rode to Moriah' mounting, and was jess ready to make a burnt sacrifice of Isaac, when an angel of de Lord (I don't know his other name) called out to him: 'See here, old man, that's enough, don't kill the boy.' That's an old ram got caught by the horns in the thicket over there; make a burnt sacrifice out on him.' And Abraham he begot Isaac, and Isaac he begot Jacob, and Jacob he begot twelve sons, and they all went down into Egypt's land, whar I've been meandering all this time. That they stayed 400 years, and their God said to Moses one day, 'Moses, I have heard the prayers and seen the tears and watched the cry and pitied the fears of my people down in Egypt, so you go down to the royal town, tell Pharoah, bound with the lust of the crown, that I say let my people git.' But Moses hemmed and hawed and said, 'Sir, I am't well enough acquainted down that.' And the Lord says, 'You can't, ain't you? Well, take Aaron the Levite, and he shall be my speechman, to tell Pharoah to let my people go.' So Moses he went down and told Pharoah, and Pharoah, nothing would do for him till they let the frogs on him. Then he got scared, I tell you, but it took the lice and the darkness and the Destroying Angel to work him up to the sticking point. And then when he did let them go he was sorry and went after them with 600 chariots filled with colonels and captains. And the Lord said to Moses, 'Jess tell your people to stand on one side and look at me, for I am gwine to do the fighting this morning.' And the Lord said to one of his angels, 'Angel, git down there and unscrew Pharoah's lynch-pin and take off his stern wheel.' And the angel did so, and then Pharoah said, 'Let's get, boys, the Lord's doing the fight.' I tell you. And he went to go, but the east wind came on and what, oh what was Pharoah? Then Moses he died, and Joshua took command, and the Israelites were beaten at the city of Ai. And wherefore? Achorn, the son of Zeth, stole a magnificent Babylonish garment and 250 shekels of silver and a wedge, and hid them under his tent, and there were 3,000 men. I forget now it was 2,000 or 300—anyhow they got whipped, and Joshua fell upon his face and prayed, and the Lord said, 'Get up, Joshua, what's the matter with you?' And Joshua said, 'Oh, Lord they licked us.' And the Lord said, 'Of course they did. Take that cursed thing away. Hain't he got that Babylonish garment? Hain't he got 250 shekels of silver?' Then they killed Achorn and his family and went after the city and took it. Then the Gibeonites played a trick on Joshua to save their lives, and two or three days after some of the neighbors sent word and said to Joshua, 'Joshua, them fellers aint foreigners, they live round here, and have taken your name.' But the five kings of Amonites, having a quarrel with the Gibeonites, came down to fight them, and the Jews buckled to them. They fit, and fit, and fit, and right here I am gwine to prove to you by this blessed book that the sun do move sure enough. For Joshua said, 'Lord the battle can't be fought before the sun goes down behind the western hills.' And the Lord said, 'Joshua tell the sun to stand still upon Gibeon, and thou moon in the valley of Ajalon.' So the sun stood still in the midst of the heavens and hasted not to go down about a whole day. Do you want any more proof than that? Take Hezekiah, where the sun went back ten degrees. And Solomon says, in Ecclesiastes, 1st chapter 5th verse, the sun riseth and the sun goeth down and hasteneth to the place where he arose. Now Solomon was a smart man, and knew something, and is entitled to respect, and what's what he says. Now, I want to ask the gramarians something. What is the meaning of the word 'arise?' Don't it mean something that goes down stairs, or gets up and moves about? If I haven't proved that the sun do move, then my name aint Jasper. Don't take my word for it, take God's. He says so. Will you make God a liar? But they say the earth moves, that the earth turns over. I show. An astronomer told me it turned over and over and over. Why, don't you see if it did all the water would fall out of the rivers and we'd all be drowned. Drowned I tell you. And if the earth turned over all the houses would tumble down and the territories turn over, and your and I would be standing on our heads half the time. It's nonsense.

I have proved by the bible that the sun do move. The bible was cherished by our fathers, we kin not do better than cherish it ourselves and teach our children to cherish. But don't believe that the earth turns over, for you know that you can't stand on your head all night.' So saying the Rev. John Jasper banged the bible together and walked down to the railing where he received the congratulations of scores of black admirers.

Mines of Mexico.

The larger cities of Mexico in the high regions of country were located because of their contiguity to mines, at a very early date. The Spanish no sooner found a gold or silver mine than a town arose, and became a permanent site. Such towns are now the capitals of flourishing states, and among them are Zacatecas, Guanajuato, Durango, San Luis Potosi, Tresnillo and Hatpujahua. In short, the towns of Nevada are settled on the plan of those of Mexico, as is the case of Gold Hill and Virginia City. At the outbreak of our Civil war nothing ailed Mexico was a progressive industry, and yielded nearly $35,000,000 a year, or about $7,000,000 more annually than under the Spanish at the best years. Spain repressed all other forms of developments, as wine, flax and and oil, designing to make her colony take her own products of that character. For thirteen years during the war of independence in Mexico, which was in Madisons, Monroes and J. Q. Adamses administrations, the mines were almost neglected. After 1823, European companies with large capital entered the country. The native iron, however, is not utilized, while the mines of precious metal are foolishly built massive, like permanent institutions. At Zacatecas, in a barren region 7,938 feet above the level of the sea, are 35,000 people, and the outworks of the mines look like feudal castles. Millions of dollars were spent on the mining property of Valenciana, to let the mules walk 500 feet deep into the solid rock, although the product was only $1,000,000 a year. The shaft of the Royer mine is octangular, 1,200 feet deep, forty feet in diameter, and blasted clean as a tunnel. Many of the Mexican mining shafts are faced with hewn stone, and their buildings are palaces.

The Aztecs understood amalgamating the metals with the native mercury, and the Italian sculptor, Benvuento Collini, pronounced an aztec fish he saw a great work of art, because its gold scales on a silver body had been cast in one mould. In 1557 a Spaniard applied amalgamation to very extensive mining, or two centuries before the Freiberg people discovered it (1786). At Tresnillo, Mexico, in 1800 A. D., two millions of hundred weight of ore were amalgamated, Spain supplied the quicksilver from her Almaden mine, or 20,000 hundred weight annually. After Mexican independence, England got the quicksilver trade, and about 1847 the Rothschilds got it and ran quicksilver up on mankind cornering the market of the world. This was stopped for awhile by opening mines of quicksilver in California. Mules and horses at the Mexican mines supply the want of water for power. The Indian laborers at the mines sometimes carry up 500 weight of ore, climbing up an inclined tree, nicked for steps. There are four mints in Mexico, government takes three per cent. Thousands of mines are peddled for sale, and in many instances common laborers strike a bonanza and grow rich. Mexican recklessness is largely dependent on the mining lottery. In Tasco Town an Indian and a small foundry proprietor worked $3,000,000 out of an old mine. The white man turned gambler, and the Indian shod his horse with silver. The common miners of Mexico are full of Romish superstition, the agriculturalists are quiet and responsible.

The mining wealth of Mexico is undoubtedly very great. In sulphur, it is immense, found in the volcanoes. It produces rubies, topazes, emeralds, opals, carbuncles, in twenty specified localities. Pueblo State, between Mexico and Vera Cruz, has mountains of marble, porphyry, slate, alabaster. Gypsum and lithorage are common. It has petroleum, naptha, and coal oil. Coal is found near Vera Cruz and in the State of Pueblo but is not plentiful nor good. There are many mines of lead, zinc, bismuth and copper, eight mines of quicksilver and several of iron. Gold and silver are worked in a majority of the states. Cor. Cincinnati Lancet.

John Adams and Mercy Warren.

Mr. Charles Francis Adams seems to have a conscientious determination that his father and his grandfather shall not be overrated or idealized by later generations. In the memoirs of his father every weak spot was uncovered; to be sure the elder Adamses did such service to their country and had virtues so marked that they do not need heroic dust. But after all one likes to think of the old patriots as above the petty vanities and quarrels of smaller men, and it is something of a disappointment to be forced to know their faults. In the fourth volume of the collections of the Massachusetts Historical society, just published, is a correspondence between John Adams and Mrs. Mercy Warren. The Adamses and Wardens were old friends and had been warm ones all through the revolution. In 1805 Mrs. Warren, then seventy seven years old, published a history of the revolutionary war. For some reason Mr. Adams did not read the book until 1807, and then irritated by his own unpopularity and his involuntary retirement to private life, he was very angry at the way in which Mrs. Warren wrote of him. He thought that she wilfully and maliciously misrepresented and injured him, and he wrote her ten long and angry letters, some of them violent and some absurd. It seems as if he were the most conceited and the hottest tempered old gentleman that ever lived, he might have had for his motto, 'Fear God and take your own part,' for he certainly acted on that principle. Mrs. Warren's replies to him were dignified lady like but indignant surprised, severe and with a touch of contempt which he richly deserved. It seems incredible that these letters should have passed between a man of seventy-two who had he gave it interests and the prominent life of Mr. Adams and a lady of seventy nine. Both seem to have retained the vigor and the emotions of youth and it seems impossible that so bitter a quarrel could ever be made up. Yet Elbridge Gerry succeeded in reconciling the estranged friends so entirely that in December 1812, five years after the angry and cruel controversy, Mrs. Adams sent to Mrs. Warren a ring containing her own hair and that of her husband added at his request. He was then seventy-seven, and Mrs. Warren, who was eighty four, wrote in reply: A token of love and friendship, what can be more acceptable to a mind of susceptibility. I shall with pleasure wear the ring as a valuable expression of your regard, nor will it be the less valued for combining with yours a lock of hair from the venerable and patriotic head of the late president of the United States. This being at his own request, enhances its worth in my estimation. It is an assurance that he can never forget former amities. So the old amities were remembered, and the recent enmities forgotten or put out of sight. Less than two years after Mrs. Warren died but Mr. Adams lived until 1826. The letters were all preserved, and now Mr. C. F. Adams and Mr. Winslow Warren, the representatives of the two families, unite in publishing them. It is an interesting story, and an extraordinary, and in some ways a very touching record of two of the brilliant and powerful old people who, in their young days, had made the old colony famous for its patriotism, its courage and its intellect. Boston Correspondence Worcester Spy.

So low that customers can pay for them, and thus retain their own self-respect.

Owing to the immense stock they have just received and that is yet to come, this firm has found it necessary to greatly enlarge their quarters, and to this end have secured the rooms above their own and the adjoining stores.

RISKS.

Any person living within an area of one hundred miles from Colorado Springs runs a risk if he buys his ready-made clothing at any other house than that of

E. LEONARD & CO.

Never in their past history was this Old Reliable Firm so well prepared to supply all the demands of the people for new, neat, and elegant spring and summer suits. Every department is replete with all the novelties of the season, and at prices never before known in the annals of the clothing trade in this city.

They make no misrepresentations. Never were they better prepared to prove the truth of this assertion than at present.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS GAZETTE

MAY 14, 1878.

Official Paper of the City of Colorado Springs.

The Monday Call made its appearance yesterday, and will prove a welcome visitor. It is a bright, newsy and handsome sheet. It is issued from the Franklin printing office, A. H. Corman, editor.

If our subscribers would place a box in some convenient place, so that the carriers might put the papers in them in the morning, we are quite sure there would not be so many lost papers. We trust that the suggestion will be considered.

Seven persons united with the Congregational church Sunday. Among the number were a minister and his wife, a minister's widow and two young men studying for the ministry.

Blind Tom.

By advices received yesterday, we learn that Blind Tom will give a matinee at the City Hall on Saturday next. None should fail to see and hear this wonderful prodigy. The admission fee to the matinee will be for adults 50 cents; children half price.

Held for Postage.

Letters and papers to the following addresses are held at the postoffice in this city, for want of postage, up to May 13: Oliver Sprague, Binghamton, N. Y.; Wilber J. Hopley, Santa Clara, Cal.; George Salmon, Hamilton, Ontario; Col. C. W. Hazzard, Monongahela City, Pa.; Della Grimshaw, Poola, Kansas.

The Great Pyramid.

The lecture at the Baptist church last Friday evening by Rev. Mr. French, while not very attractive to people who do not care to think, awakened lively interest in thoughtful minds. The great pyramid is an attractive mystery, inducing and repaying careful study, this the lecturer has given it. The lecture here referred to, however, does not attempt to solve the symbolisms of the surprising internal structure, but deals with the science of the external, showing the correlations between the pyramid, the earth and the universe. The lecture is the substance of an article prepared by request for the West's Science Monthly, published at Kansas City and appears in the May number of that periodical, with illustrations. The author will have a supply of the May number, which he can furnish at fifteen cents a copy. Mr. Vail will take names of those desiring the article, for a few days, and provide them. Several persons asked for the privilege at the close of the lecture. Names may be sent through the postoffice or otherwise.

The Churches.

The churches on Sunday were very well attended considering the threatening aspect of the weather; and the disagreeably cold wind which prevailed throughout the day. At the

the morning subject was "The duty of Christians to adorn their profession." In the evening Mr. Walker delivered a discourse upon "The doctrine of a retributive future existence sustained by arguments from the laws of nature." The attendance was very fair at both services. The

which was organized on the 5th inst., held services in the M. E. church south, Rev. F. E. Hardin, pastor; Prof. J. P. Ralston, elder. The services at the

were well attended. The subject of the morning discourse was "The human purposes vs. the Divine purposes in Christ's crucifixion." In the evening there was a very large attendance, and the discourse upon the subject "What the captive Jewish prince did in Babylon and why he did it," was listened to with rapt attention. Although the Methodist church is one of our most popular churches, we do not doubt that its popularity might be greatly increased were the location of the church more central. This is a matter which should be attended to by the trustees of the church. Owing to the absence of the pastor the

was not opened as usual. Preaching was held in the morning, but a misunderstanding kept a large number away. Interesting services were held at the CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Several persons united with the church, and the discourses, both morning and evening, were of a very instructive and interesting character. The evening subject at the

was "The course and crown of empire, as predicted in Daniel's image." There was a good attendance, both morning and evening. The services at the church were well attended. The subject of the morning discourse was "Putting on Christ," and the evening subject "The Angel's grasp, or earnestness of Christians."

The Sunday Schools throughout the city were well attended.

Thanks to Company "B."

At the regular weekly meeting of the Colorado Springs Cavalry, held at their armory last evening, Capt. T. H. Burnham read the following communication, received from Adjutant General Robert S. Roe, written in response to a telegram sent by the captain, stating that Company "B" was equipped, mounted, and waiting for orders to go to the front:

DENVER, May 9, 1878.

Capt. T. H. Burnham, Commanding Company "B" First Colorado Cavalry, Colorado Springs, Col.:

CAPTAIN: Your letter and telegram came promptly to hand, and I desire to thank you for the hearty and generous response made to my call.

The governor is very much pleased with your letter, and desires that you express to the company his appreciation of the readiness to go at his call.

Judge Hallett has rendered a decision in the railroad case that will doubtless put a quietus upon matters in the Canon, but nevertheless it is very gratifying to know that, if needed, we can depend upon Company "B," full strength.

I am, Captain, very truly yours,

ROBERT S. ROE, Adjt. G'n'l.

THE BOYS' EXPERIENCE.

"I'd rather have a fool make me merry than experience make me sad."—As you like it.

The following "true story" is told in foolish rhyme in order that no merry reader may experience sadness by purchasing clothing elsewhere than at F. E. Dow's:

There were three boys sat under a tree,
And they were happy as boys could be;
'Twas Saturday noon, they were glad to say:
"Hurrah! good fellows, no school to-day."

Boy number one spoke out, said he:
"How nicely this prime new suit fits me!"
The second boy said: "I've a right good thing.
Just look at this elegant suit for spring!"

The other chimed in: "Oho! but see
What a splendid new rig my mother bought me!"
Then the chorus went up in regular rows,
"Our SPRING SUITS all came from F. E. Dow's!"
